Citizen Says the Two Officers Were on a Drunk.

And the Officers Declare It Was the Citizen Who Had on the Jag.

POLICE BOARD TO INVESTIGATE

The board of fire and police commissioners have their first nut to crack. The formal charges of drunkenness were preferred against Officers Huck Whitehurst and Enoch Linn, and Chief Collier said they would be suspended until Monday evening, when the board of commissioners will investigate the charges against them.

The charges were preferred to Captain Henry Bailey last night by Mr. W. A. Dishon, the sign writer, of Trimble street, near Twelfth. He alleged that his family went to the circus, and when they returned learned that some one had entered the house during their absence and turned things upside down in their search for something valuable.

When Mr. Dishon came home from work and it was reported to him, he went to the circus ground and notified Officer Linn, who was not on duty, but was watching about the grounds, and went to the house and looked over it. Mr. Dishon says the officer was too drunk to afford any assistance and he then went after Officer Whitehurst.

He finally accused the latter of being drunk also, and Officer Whitehurst denied the charge, and as might have been expected on such an occasion hot words passed, and the two men had a fight near the front gate. Mr. Dishon was climbed by the officer, and claims that the officer, after being handed his pistol, which he had dropped, pointed it at him and ordered him to be quiet, which he did without further persuasion. An ugly gash was evident and his clothes were bloody when he appeared at the police station and reported the matter.

The officers tell an entirely different story. Officer Linn said that all there was to the affair was that he was notified by Mr. Dishon that his house had been broken into, and went with him to see it. Mr. Dishon first pointed to a door and said: "See how they smashed that in." The officer declares there was nothing the matter with the door, and there was not a crack in it.

Mr. Dishon claims that his house had been ransacked, but missed nothing. The officer says he saw nothing remarkable, and it looked to him as if the house probably hadn't been cleaned up, and that was all. He said as there was nothing stolen, so far as known, and no else, he informed Mr. Dishon that nothing could be done and that he was detailed to remain about the circus grounds and would have to return to his duties. This made Mr. Dishon mad and he accused the officer of being drunk. Mr. Linn says Mr. Dishon himself was drunk.

Officer Whitehurst was then summoned by Mr. Dishon, and like Officer Linn, being unable to see any remarkable traces of thieves, and learning that nothing had been missed, he started to leave, whereupon he, too, was accused of being "drunk like the other officer." He informed Mr. Dishon that if he said so, Mr. Whitehurst, was drunk, he was a liar. Mr. Dishon said if he said he wasn't drunk, he was several things that would not look well in print, and then they mixed. The two officers go on duty at midnight and work until noon, and will not be laid off until 12 o'clock tonight.

The whole affair in a nutshell is that Mr. Dishon claims the officers were drunk and they claim that Mr. Dishon was drunk, and the police board will have to hear the evidence and decide who is right.

MASONS TO LEAVE.

The Mary Stewart, with a crowd of local Masons, will leave this evening about 8 o'clock for Smithland, where a Masonic meeting is to be held, and a host of Masons from various surrounding cities entertained. About forty or more are expected to go with the local delegation.

Spot Polk was Given a Life Sentence in Circuit Court Today.

He Confessed to Killing George Gray Last April—First Case on Record.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS

Spot Polk, colored, pleaded guilty to the murder of George Gray in circuit court this morning, and was given a life term in the Edgelyville penitentiary. It is the first case on record in the McCracken circuit court where a person pleaded guilty to murder.

Lennie Fugate, colored, is in jail charged with complicity in the killing. Polk shot George Gray April 14, in front of Bennett's saloon at Ninth and Boyd streets, it is alleged because he claimed Gray owed him some money, and wouldn't pay it. After the shooting he escaped, and Gray died a few days later. Fugate is alleged to have been with him and held Gray.

Polk remained at large for several months, but was finally located in Chicago by Captain Henry Bailey, of the police force, and Lieut. Moore was sent for him after the Chicago police had located and arrested him.

Polk expressed a desire to plead guilty several days ago but had no opportunity to until this morning.

In the case of W. B. Weaks, guardian, against Mabel O. Weaks and others, a verdict for the sale of land was returned.

Mrs. Lillian M. White was granted a divorce from W. H. G. White, and restored to her maiden name, Lillian Haggard.

Lottie Hamilton, colored, for obtaining money by false pretenses, was given one year on a confession of guilt.

One Hurgois was this morning cleared of the charge of grand larceny after having been before the court for two terms.

Hurgois and a companion named Ed Jones and Fannie Wilson were arrested before the last term of circuit court. A Central City man named Frank Patterson brought the charges. He claimed that $236 was taken from him while he was drunk. Jones was acquitted of the charge and this morning Hurgois was acquitted, and the case against Fannie Wilson was dismissed. All three, Hurgois, Jones and the woman, came here from Cairo.

Ed Mayberry, colored, who stole $30 from D. A. McKinnon during the carnival pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

The time of the grand jury was extended one week and court adjourned for the remainder of the day.

AT AN END.

ONE OF THE COAL STRIKES IS VIRTUALLY OVER NOW.

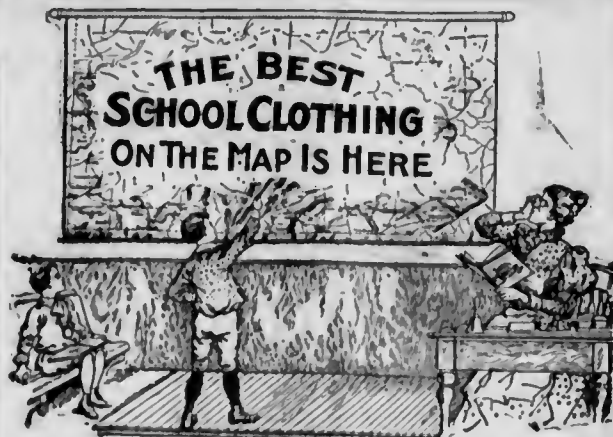

Charleston, West Va., Sept. 6.—The coal miners strike which has been in progress in the Kanawa and New River fields since June 7 and involving 10,000 men, is practically at an end. Each local union is instructed to go back to work on the best possible terms without regard to the action of any other union.

MISSOURI OFFICERS RETURN HOME UNTIL THE PAPERS ARRIVE.

Constable Chandler and the two gentlemen who accompanied him here from Bonne Terre, Mo., to identify the negro supposed to be Andrew O'Farren, left this morning for home. They are satisfied the man is the one they want, but Judge Sanders will not turn him over to them without a requisition. The prisoner sticks to his statement that he is Lige Armstrong, and seems willing to go back with the officers and prove that he is not the man.

KNIGHT HOTEL IN DANGER FOR A TIME.

A box car used as an oil house for the I. C. at Fulton, located near the Knight hotel, was burned this morning about 4 o'clock and the hotel was for a time in danger. The origin of the conflagration was unknown and little damage resulted to the railroad. Some little oil was lost, but the stock on hand was not very large.

The night police found two bicycles last night, one on Broadway between Second and Third and the other near Fourth and Jefferson. One proved to be the property of a Postal messenger boy and the other of Mr. Grant, salesman installment man. Merchants' Police-men Frenell found one of them.

Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inaction, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much to the surprise and joy of the mother.

ASTER AND GOLDENROD.

A fair young queen upon her throne Looked down, in days of old,
And kneeling at her feet beheld
A knight with plumes of gold.
Her ancient palace by the sea,
Her scepter and her crown—
She left them all to follow him,
But kept her purple gown.

See, yonder where the sunman's torch
Has burned the stubble bare,
Still side by side they gaily go,
The happy vagrant pair.
She wears the royal purple yet,
And yet untarnished not
His knightly plumes of brilliant gold—Aster and goldenrod.

A FORMER PADU.

CAIAN IN ITALY.

Mrs. Pearl Buckner Cary of Dallas, Tex., who is now traveling in Europe, has given a charming description of Italy in a recent letter to relatives here, which will prove interesting reading to her many friends in her former home. Mrs. Cary writes delightfully of her travels and brings the scenes very vividly before one. She was one of the brightest, most sparkling of Paducah girls, and time has added depth and force to the girlhood brilliancy. Mrs. Cary sails for home this month.

Hotel Lanrati, Rome.

August 15, 1902.

After leaving Florence we had an enchanting three days at Naples, Capri and Pompeii—the last proving intensely interesting because of recent excavations which have revealed, especially, one of the most charming homes I have ever seen, adorned with beautiful carved pillars, fountains, paintings, such as we moderns may well envy a civilization which probably dates back at least 2,000 years. The temples, the baths, the theatres of Pompeii are wonderful in their ruins, and I certainly enjoyed our exploration. Vesuvius towers high beyond it, while Naples is exquisitely situated on the bay, an hour's ride by rail. Capri, the most enchanting of islands, washed by the Mediterranean, whose waters are of a blue too lovely for description, is situated on the side of a mountain, its quaint homes hanging close to the cliffs, its gardens fragrant with great masses of pink oleanders and lemon trees full of golden fruit—all picturesque beyond words, the favorite home of the artist and of the dreamer. But all Italy is that, you know, beauty, beauty everywhere, the very

"Garden of the world, the home Of all art yields and nature can deceive, E'en in thy desert what is like to thee?
Thy very weeds are beautiful, thy waste
More rich than other climes' fertility;
Thy wreck a glory, and thy ruins graced
With an immaculate charm which cannot be defaced."

And this, the "Eternal City"—the great stage whereon such mighty parts have been played—well, it is more than beautiful; it is so intensely absorbing that one forgets one's own self and one's own selfish interests and is lost, plunged into the tragedy of the years, or in contemplation of the vast monuments of antiquity. The Forum, Coliseum, the palace of the Caesars, sublime even in their ruins, to the imaginative mind become repeopled with heroes from the past, and one can see the conqueror's chariot climbing, amid the applause of the multitude, to the Capitol; can behold Pompey and Antony, Brutus and Cassina, again threading the ways so loved by them; or, standing in the arena of the great Coliseum, hear the cries of the martyrs as they grapple in the last struggle with wild beasts; see the cruel passion of Nero as he leans from his camped balcony above, giving the signal for slaughter!

After Imperial Rome comes the Rome of the Popes—and of them St.
Peter's is the sign of vast dominion and of power. Oh, to give you some idea of this most glorious church in Christendom! It is a golden triumph of art—inside, outside, a majestic dream of marble columns uplifting the vast dome of Michael Angelo! The sublimity of it is awful—one must worship on entering whether one is pagan or Christian; the soul bows before such divinity of beauty.

Today we had a long drive out to the splendid new church of St. Paul's, where the great apostle is buried;
then on to the English cemetery, where I visited the graves of my beloved Shelley and Keats—so sadly neglected and desolate—and from Keats' grave I pulled this bit of green.

We are off for Switzerland in a few days.

A PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

A wedding of especial and prominent social interest was that of Miss Virginia Lesh and Mr. George B.
Hart on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. It was a pretty church wedding, simple but effective and the First Presbyterian church looked very charming for the occasion.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Cave, D. D., in the presence of a large and representative audience. Prof. Harry Gilbert presided at the organ, rendering the wedding march and other selections with happy skill.

The bride wore a pretty gown of white Paris muslin and dachesse lace and carried bride roses.

The only attendants were the ushers: Messrs. Charles F. Rieke, Abram Weil, J. D. Mcquon and Edison Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart left at 6:30 for a bridal trip north, and will be absent until October 1. When they return they will reside on West Jefferson street.

A PARTY DANCE

IN NASHVILLE

The Nashville Daily News gives the following account of a pretty party given by a young lady who visits Paducah and is a popular favorite in the younger society set:

"The opening dance of the coming season was given Tuesday evening by Miss Nell Parks in honor of Miss Margaret Douglas, of Franklin, the charming visitor of Dr. and Mrs. C.
M. Wilson. The Parks home was most fittingly decorated, and elegant refreshments were served. The entire lower floor was a mass of roses and lilies of the valley, blended together, making a most beautiful effect."
The guest list was quite an extensive one.

SURPRISE MARRIAGE

IN ST. LOUIS.

A surprise marriage to their friends in Paducah, although it culminated a courtship of several years, was that of Miss Cora Williams and Mr. Andrew Clark of this city, which occurred in St. Louis on Tuesday night.

The bride left on Saturday for St.
Louis. Mr. Clark, who is the popular bookkeeper for the L. B. Ogilvie Dry Goods company, joined her there on Tuesday and they were quietly married.

INFORMAL AFFAIRS.

Society in an informal fashion has managed to have a very pleasant time this week. There have been theater parties, cirens parties, and The Kontucky club has seen some social occasions, strictly informal. There have been one or two small card parties in visitors' honor, but all the entertaining is being done now on the quiet so it does the society column little good non fil-up. However, Society has just as good a time.

U. D. C. MEET.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy held a pleasant meeting with Mrs. James Koger of Jefferson street on Tuesday morning. It was the first meeting since the early summer, but no business was transacted, many of the members still being out of the city. There will be another meeting with Mrs. James Koger, on Tuesday of next week, it being desired to have a full vote on some important questions.

PLEASANT OCCASION.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vogt, who were married on Tuesday evening, were tendered a pleasant reception at their home on South Twelfth street on Thursday evening. A large crowd was present, and an elegant supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Vogt are very popular, and their marriage which was a very quiet one, was a surprise to many of their friends.

A COMING OPERA.

The choir of St. Francis de Sales Catholic church is arranging to give an opera at The Kentucky on the 17th of this month for the benefit of the organ fund. The opera is "Peppery Pa" and is quite sparkling and clever.
The cast will include some of the finest voices in the city.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Atlanta Constitution of Sunday last contained a picture of Miss Annie Lee Penn, of Danville, Va., and paid her the following tribute:

"Miss Annie Lee Penn is a belle of Danville, Va., daughter of Mr. James G. Penn, a prominent Virginia capitalist. Besides being endowed with many natural charms, Miss Penn has had opportunities and advantages that fall only to the few. She has just returned from Cold Spring Springs, where she was the recipient of many honors. She has had extensive foreign travel and has on a number of occasions visited in Atlanta."

DAILY THOUGHT.

"To think continually of how we feel, how we look, how others regard us, whether we receive our proper share of deference and attention, whether this one slighted, or that one looked down upon us, is to be too small to recognize the true grandeur of manhood or womanhood."

THE WEATHER.

Showers tonight. Sunday fair and cooler.

WE NEED THE IMPROVEMENTS.

The proposition to issue city bonds is receiving considerable attention from the people of Paducah, but a great many men of intelligence display a distressing ignorance on the subject. Some are heard every day to declare: "I am opposed to voting this $200,000 tax on the people." They are not to vote any "tax" on the people. This is where they make a serious mistake. They are to vote in favor or against the city issuing bonds, which will be sold and certain improvements made with the proceeds of the sale.

The interest on the bonds every year will amount to several thousand dollars, and this will have to be paid by the taxpayers, but it can be shown that the improvements will result in such a saving to the city, coupled with an increase in revenue, that the interest and sinking fund will easily be provided for without a cent of extra cost to the taxpayers.

It seems that there is only one way to obtain needed improvements in Paducah, and that is by a bond issue. It is generally conceded that Paducah needs better streets, a new city hospital, and one or more new market houses, if we are to have any market house at all. The Democrats keep the tax rate as high now as the people will tolerate, and their extravagance in various ways prevents there ever being sufficient money with which to make extensive improvements, hence the only solution to the problem of municipal improvement is by a bond issue.

Lexington is now agitating the question of better streets, and one of her councilmen recently went to Owensboro. The latter place is one of the best and most progressive cities in the state, and its beauty and modern appearance have been secured principally by improvements made by a bond issue.

The Lexington councilman was so favorably impressed with what he saw in Owensboro, that when he got home he made the following statement for the benefit of the somewhat slow and unprogressive people of his own city: "I have just returned from Owensboro where I attended a convention and I was never so charmed with the appearance of a small town before. The streets are kept in a beautiful condition and they are so clean that you could sit down and play marbles on them without getting dust on your clothes. When I got back to Lexington and my eyes fell on the same old piles of dirt that infest the streets, the dust blowing in my eyes as I walked through them, and I thought of the amount of taxes paid, it occurred to me that Lexington could well afford to take a lesson from Owensboro and I want to see it done."

The above might also receive the thoughtful consideration of the people of Paducah.

The question of building a new market house is one that is being freely discussed, and it seems a strong sentiment is developing against a new one. The reason urged is that Paducah is getting too large for one market house, and that the location of the present market house is so far from the center of the populated districts that the people have gone to the groceries for marketing, and only comparatively a few go to the market house. This is only one argument, however. Another is that if the city is to issue bonds for a market house, or for the purpose of providing the public with adequate accommodations for doing their daily marketing, the city should have a house where the present one is, and two more smaller ones in other parts of the city. A great many people, owing to the extensiveness of the business now done with the groceries, are in favor of issuing no bonds whatever for a new market house, but prefer allowing the city to do with the market house she now has. It is not certain whether this part of the bond proposition will carry or not. The administration should make clear its plans at once, in order that people may understand fully what they are to vote on.

The Republican candidates for congress and court of appeals in this district, Hon. C. H. Linn, of Kettawa, and Hon. P. H. Darby, of Princeton, are meeting with great encouragement in their respective races. They are scholarly gentlemen with strong followings, and make a good impression wherever they go. In addition to the men themselves being popular and highly esteemed, they stand for all that is highest and best in political principle. The Republican party has made and kept the country what it is, and to perpetuate prosperity we must continue the Republican party in power. The Republicans advocate and enforce, so far as can be enforced, what are acknowledged to be the best principles possible to formulate, and the people have for years attested their confidence in their sincerity, integrity and ability by keeping them in power, except once or twice when a departure from the time honored custom proved a most costly and disagreeable experience to the great American people, and one which the country will never repeat. Messrs. Linn and Darby are good men, and will make a good race in this district, although it has always been Democratic.

The couple who committed suicide and laid it on the trusts must have been bad off for an excuse. The trusts seem to become more and more important every day. After a while they will be the cause of every man's going to the asylum or the penitentiary, and will have proven of some use to humanity after all. We all like to have something to lay the blame on for our shortcomings or misfortunes, and should be glad the trusts fill the bill.

A year ago yesterday the late and greatly loved President William McKinley received the wound from which he shortly afterward died. Time flies, but his memory will always be revered, and he is now and will always be numbered among the greatest of our deceased statesmen.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Metropolis Herald, is to move into new quarters, and combine its daily and weekly editions.

KENTUCKIANS MARRY.

Clarksville, Tenn., Sept. 6.—James E. Howerton and Miss Alice M. Henderson, of Marion, Ky., came to Clarksville and were married by a justice of the peace.

WAS NOT MARRIED A HEAVY BUSINESS

"Redg" Duval's Supposed Widow Makes a Confession.

Trouble Over Securing Possession of the Remains—She Wanted the Estate.

MATTERS STRAIGHTENED OUT

Since the death of Mr. "Redg" Duval of Paducah in a wreck in Indiana about two weeks ago there has been some doubt as to his marriage to Miss Florence Chamberlain, the Louisville papers saying that he was not married. Relatives of the deceased were asked about the matter this morning and one said:

"No, Reginald was not married to the woman, and that is what caused the trouble in arranging for the funeral and settling the estate. We wanted to bury the remains here and spent over half a day telegraphing her to secure the body, but she insisted on burying it in Louisville. We had to go there to attend the funeral and subsequent developments proved that she was not married and wanted to secure his estate, his insurance, etc."

"She was the first on the scene of the wreck, having gone out on the wrecker, and it is claimed took all his papers, the marriage license and his purse and other personal possessions. She took charge of the remains in the authority of a wife and arranged for the burial. We could find no trace of the marriage, although the license had been issued, and placed the matter with attorneys, who, with the assistance of secret service men, found that she had never been wedded, and finally secured her own confession when she was sent for in the contesting of the administration. She was summoned to appear and set up her claim for the administration, but she did not appear. Instead she wrote a note saying that she was not married to the deceased and had no right to qualify as administratrix. We then had the body removed here and buried at Oak Grove."

"She at first tried every means possible to set up a claim for the estate on the grounds that she was his lawfully wedded wife, and even went so far as to take her brother with her to a magistrate and try to marry him in the name of Reginald Duval. By chance the magistrate knew that Reginald Duval was dead and refused."

The relatives were rather inclined to remain silent on the subject today, but after seeing that the Louisville papers were investigating the matter decided to make a statement. It is said that some of the papers of the deceased man are still in the possession of the woman, but are supposed to be in the hands of the chief of police. The matter is still being worked on, but as the alleged wife has relinquished all claims on the deceased in the name of his wife, the estate will be straightened out and all differences settled.

Mr. Duval's body was brought here Thursday and buried at Oak Grove.

TAKEN TO THE PEST HOUSE.

The family of Lee Klag, colored, has been removed to the pest house and this morning the house where they lived was thoroughly fumigated. The smallpox was discovered day before yesterday by City Physician Robert Rivers, who reported the fact to the police. There seemed some doubt as to the real nature of the disease and other physicians were brought in to examine the patient, and finally pronounced it smallpox. The flag was placed out yesterday and the colored loafers have been steering clear of the place ever since the doctor made his first visit.

The Bank Clearings Show a Slight Decrease in Paducah.

The Reports From All Branches of Business Are Most Encouraging Here.

GOOD SHOWING EVERYWHERE

Clearings this week $550,677
Same week last year 544,776
Decrease 11,009

The bank clearings show a slight decrease this week over the same week last year. Money is very active with big demands.

Business with the wholesale houses is very good and as the season advances grows better. The busiest place in the city to be found at present is the I. O. freight depot, and it is a very interesting sight to see with what dispatch and clock-like precision the huge business is run. A reporter for The Sun went through the warehouse yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the busiest time of the day, with the assistant agent, Mr. A. R. Meyers, and was surprised at the volume of business done and the ease with which it was accomplished. The loading and unloading of the cars is done on the same system used at all large shipping centers, and is a credit to the local management. On an average of 30 cars a day are loaded at the freight depot, and about the same number unloaded each day, giving an idea of the extent of the shipping over one route, going out of Paducah. Mr. Meyers said last Tuesday was the biggest day in the history of the Paducah depot, but that every day was a strenuous one for the many employees.

The Sutherland Medicine Co. made some very large shipments of Pine Tar Honey this week, and according to the I. O. management hold the record for one day shipment made by a Paducah house. When the fact that there are over 80 jobbing concerns in the city, and that the aggregate jobbing business is $15,000,000 a year, is taken into consideration, this is a big thing. But the Sutherland Medicine Co. is doing "big things" this year. For one day two shipments amounted to nearly $30,000, and they have made as large shipments for several weeks with a huge booking of orders for immediate shipments on the books. The business done by this concern is growing faster than any business in the city and is giving the town more advertising than any other two houses in the city. At present they have a force of fifteen men on the road, thirteen of them in new territory, and all doing a big business.

Retail trade is opening up very satisfactory on fall goods with indications for a good season.

Work on the iron furnace to put it in shape is progressing very satisfactorily.

O. H. Rieck and Sons are moving into the store next door to their establishment recently vacated by Harbort.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy will meet on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock with Mrs. Victoria Thompson, Jefferson street, instead of Mrs. James Koger, as elsewhere announced. All the members are urged to attend, as there is business of importance, and the annual election of officers.

—Mr. W. H. Linton, trainmaster of the east end of the Louisville division, was in the city this morning on business. He left at noon with Mr. Daly and party.

A PADUCAH ARTIST.

MRS. GUS EDWARDS TO SHORTLY PREPARE AN EXHIBIT.

Mrs. Gus Edwards, the artist, will shortly make her annual exhibit, probably in the Ogilvie window. Mrs. Edwards made an exhibit last fall and has not had any work before the public since. She has prepared a number of designs in burnt wood and also has some excellent examples of china burning. One large vase worked in flowers is especially good and the work when placed on exhibition will undoubtedly attract much attention.

BILL POSTERS MEET.

SEVERAL FROM PADUCAH TO LEAVE FOR LOUISVILLE TOMORROW.

Messrs. Will H. Utterback and wife and Mr. Joe Everich, local bill posters, leave tomorrow for Louisville to attend a meeting of the State Bill Posters' Association, called for September 8 by President J. G. Burch, of Owensboro. The object is to make arrangements for entertaining the delegates of the Association of Bill Posters of the United States and Canada, which will hold its convention in Louisville next July. It is the intention of the Kentucky bill posters to give the visitors a reception in keeping with the reputation of the state, and they want to begin making arrangements as soon as possible.

EXPECTED TO BURST IN.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 6.—Taylor Charleston, colored, was nanged for killing Will Hardy, also colored. He died professing religion, his prayer being that his dead mother might meet him in the "union depot" when he came "bursting into heaven."

Good-By to "Tipping."

After the lapse of some years, a fresh effort is now being made in Berlin to stamp out the system of tipping waiters at hotels and restaurants. An "Anti-Tip League" has been formed, the members of which bind themselves on joining never to give any tips whatever to waiters in cafes, restaurants or hotels, nor to the conductors of tram-cars and omnibuses. In case any remonstrance should be made by those accustomed to receive gratuities of this kind, they are to be advised to lodge a complaint with their employers and to demand an increase of wages from them.

Little Coal in Italy.

Italy has almost no coal of its own. The industrial revival which in the past few years has developed many factories at Genoa and other places along the coast has been fed by an unceasing stream of coal shipments from England supplemented by considerable supplies brought in by rail from Austria. Of course it is a great disadvantage to have to carry coal so far; and Italy is not helped out of her dilemma by water power, for, as most of her streams have a habit of drying up a part of the year, they can not be depended upon to keep the wheels of industry turning.

Progress in Porto Rico.

Porto Rico has a strong disposition to devote itself to practical matters. An automobile line for the benefit of tourists is making regular trips across the island from San Juan to Ponce. A plan is under consideration to place powerful automobiles, drawing trailers, on the same road, for freight purposes. Many fine roads are under construction in the island, and the slow bull carts hitherto used to carry freight will soon disappear.

Was Weak in Mathematics.

The Atlanta Constitution the other day received the following letter: "Sur an Friend—Do the Carnegie Library lend books techn Matthewmatties to Outside your City? I want Onite Books on Matthewmatties, as I am all right on spellin an am a purty good Grammatician, if I do say it Miself. I kin Spel on Grammaries, but Matthewmatties is one too Much for Me"

NICK OF TIME.

The importance of finding the right food is invaluable when the stomach revolts and the nourishment of the body becomes a problem.

Mrs. Fannie Hall of Orleans, N. Y., was an invalid for over ten years, hardly able to drag herself around the house, and nothing she ate seemed to nourish her. She had chronic diarrhoea, her food did not digest and she was so nervous she could not bear the least noise or excitement.

She writes: "About a year ago I was looking over a paper when the name of Grape-Nuts caught my eye and I determined to try them. I sent for a package and I have never been without them since; they seem to be the thing I need."

"When I commenced eating Grape-Nuts I weighed 115 pounds, and now I weigh 145 pounds and am well and do my own work."

"My children think they cannot get along without them and I use a package a day."

"The whole family eat them for dessert with cream, in preference to anything else. When I go away I always take a package with me, as no other food agrees with me as well. I always call Grape-Nuts the 'lucky food,' as I think I owe my life to them."

Fall Dress Goods

This display is an assemblage of the most popular weaves for the coming fall and winter. You are cordially invited to look over these new fall fabrics. We will start the season now with some very superior offerings and promise to save you money right along in prices and to otherwise be of service to you in your purchases.

We have made extensive purchases of new merchandise for every department in our Great Store. Each day for the next few weeks will be bringing us some of these new purchases. As they come we would be pleased to show them to you from time to time. We invite you to make this store your store and to feel that you are always perfectly welcome to all of its privileges.

Ladies Ready-to-Wear Garments

In advance of the coming season we want to tell you that we will have a dazzling display in every line of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Garments. Take both Silk and Flannel Shirt Waists—richer by far in style, design and trimming combination than ever shown before. To see them will be to want them.

Take Ladies' Tailor Jackets—The invention in many of the styles are marvelously beautiful. Our showing will be large, with a dash of elegance here and there that will charm you to its liking—and, if you don't mind, to its purchase.

Take Skirts—Well, the showing will be large, the styles varied and the selling larger or we are no judge of good things at reasonable prices.

Millinery—To fail to tell you how that Mrs. Harbour has been ransacking the market, viewing every conceivable style, gathering the newest styles and designs, buying the best, compounding ideas and preparing in every way to furnish you the most up-to-date millinery, would be an injustice to her and unfair to you. A great stock and a great business, an up-to-date line is her motto for the fall of 1902.

School Days and Boys' Clothing. You can't afford to let your boy be shabby at school when you can buy clothes for him at our low prices. We had our fall school suits at 50c, knee pant built on stouter lines than usual and this will do for your boy to walk, run, jump, sit, play or climb in, if fit, style and price in addition to quality will interest you, kindly do us the favor and yourself the saving to inspect our boys' suits and knee pant stock.

Men's Pants.

You should see our new line of men's pants. Heavy wool and cotton mixed pants go in this sale at $1.25 and $1.50 a pair. A guaranteed pant at $2, $2.50 and $3.50 a pair.

Shoe Department.

See our shoe window for great values in fine shoes. Join the procession of buyers, secure a pair of "The Uncle Sam Shoes." The shoe that rules the world and one that is as good as its name, guaranteed at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 a pair. In ladies' shoes we are now in position to show you the strongest line we have ever had the pleasure of showing at $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, and $3.50. Every pair guaranteed to give satisfaction.

School Shoes.

We have them of the right kind at the right prices. Low shoes at one-fourth to one-third off. Prices slaughtered on all low shoes and slippers, some go at cost, some far less than cost. If you want slippers we'll save you money.

LATE NEWS FROM LIVINGSTON

The Announcement of Hon. John K. Hendrick for Governor.

Talk of Litigation Over the Owen's Cave Property Near Smithland.

Smithland, Sept. 6—Hon. John K. Hendrick formally announced his candidacy for governor here last Monday afternoon at the opening of circuit court. It had been reported that he would open his campaign at either Mayfield or Bowling Green. He decided, however, to make the opening speech in his home county. There was a large crowd present and his masterly effort was listened to with profound attention.

The Courier is in receipt of a letter dated yesterday from the Grand Pierre Lead and Zinc Mining company, of Golconda, Ill., stating that they had just ordered the machinery for their mine, and that their property is no longer a "prospect," but contains three fine fissure veins of lead, zinc and tin ore. The capital stock of this company is $750,000. Stockholders are Paducah and Golconda capitalists.

There is likely to be some litigation, if reports are true, over the ownership of the old silver mine on the Owen's Cave property. Judge T. A. Baker, of Louisville, now comes in as a claimant on the rich lead and claims the ownership of several hundred feet square adjacent to the old mine. The present owners are Paducah capitalists.

Deputy Sheriff O. H. Ornee has resigned his position and will likely remove to Paducah, where he will accept a position with the Illinois Central.

Douglas of Monon, Ind., relative to the cause of death and disposition of the remains. The body was shipped to Monticello this morning.

Marvelous Elixir of Life Discovered

Cures Every Known Ailment.

Wonderful Cures Are Effected That Seem Like Miracles Performed—The Secret of Long Life of Olden Times Revived.

THE REMEDY IS FREE TO ALL WHO

After years of patient study and delving into the dusty records of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2431 BALTES BUILDING, Fort Wayne, Ind., makes the startling announcement that he has surely dis-

DR. JAMES WILLIAM KIDD.

covered the elixir of life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life-giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim, and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seem to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free to any one who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the cures effected are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs, or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissues, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike, and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of, and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

FIRST IN TWENTY-SIX YEARS.

Constable Phil Hisey has returned from a two weeks' visit to his old home in the Valley of Virginia, which he had not visited for twenty-six years. He saw and visited while there the old home in which his grandfather lived 150 years ago, and brought home with him all that is left of his grandfather's clock, some old wooden wheels.

KIDNAPPED

THE ADVENTURES OF DAVID BAILEY IN THE YEAR 1731 BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

A huge after two captain came, as was agreed, to one of the windows, and stood there in the rain, with his arm in a sling, and looking stern and pale and so old that my heart smote me for having fired upon him.

Alan at once held a pistol in his face.
"But that thing up!" said the captain.
"Have I not passed my word, sir, or do you seek to affront me?"

"Captain," said Alan, "I doubt your word is a breakable. Last night ye lagged and argle bargled like an apple wife, and then passed me your word, and gave me your hand to back it, and ye ken very well what was the upshot.
Ye damned to your word!" says he.

"Well, well, sir," said the captain.
"Ye'll get little good by swearing." (And truly that was a fault of which the captain was quite free.) "But we have other things to speak," he continued bitterly. "Ye've made a sore head of my brig; I haven't hands enough left to work her, and my first officer (whom I could ill spare) has got your sword through his vitals, and passed without speech. There is nothing left me, sir, but to put back into the port of Glasgow after hands."

"No," continued Alan, "that'll nae do.
Ye'll just have to set me ashore as we agreed."

"Aye," said Hosenon, "but my first officer is dead—ye ken best how. There's none of the rest of us acquaint with this coast, sir, and it's one very dangerous to ships."

"Well, then, to Glasgow if ye list?"
says Alan.

"But all this will cost money, sir," said the captain.

"Well, sir," says Alan, "I am nae wealthier. Thirty guineas if ye land me on the seacoast, and sixty if ye put me in the Linne loch."

"But see, sir, where we lie, we are lost a few hours' sail from Adamnanclan," said Hosenon. "Give me sixty and I'll set ye there."

"And I'm to wear my brogues and run jeopardy of the redcoats to please you?" cries Alan. "No, sir, if ye want sixty guineas, warn them, and set me in my own country."

"It's to risk the brig, sir," said the captain, "and your own lives along with her."

"Take it or want it," says Alan.

"Could ye pilot us at all?" asked the captain, who was frowning to himself.

"Well, it's doubtful," said Alan. "I'm more of a fighting man (as ye have seen for yourself) than a sailor man. But I have been often enough picked up and set down upon this coast, and should ken something of the lie of it."

The captain shook his head, still frowning.

"If I had less money on this melancholy cruise," says he, "I would see you in a rupe's end before I risked my brig, sir.
But be it as ye will. As soon as I get a slant of wind and there's some sailing or I'm the more mistaken I'll put it in hand. But there's one thing more. We may meet in with a king's ship and she may lay us aboard, sir, with no blame of mine; they keep the cruisers thick upon this coast, ye ken who for. Now, sir, if that was to befall ye might leave the money."

"Captain," says Alan, "if ye see a pennant it shall be your part to run away.
And now, as I hear you're a little short of brandy in the fore part, I'll offer ye a cassac, a bottle of brandy against two bushels of water."

That was the last clause of the treaty and was duly executed on both sides, so that Alan and I could at last wash out the roundhouse and be quit of the memorials of those whom we had slain, and the captain and Mr. Riach could be happy again in their own way, the name of which was drink.

CHAPTER XII. I HEAR OF THE RED FOX.

"Never with the sword," he cried loudly.
Before we had done cleaning out the roundhouse a breeze sprung up from a little to the east of north. This blew off the rain and brought out the sun.

And here I must explain, and the reader would do well to look at a map.
On the day when the fog fell and we ran down Alan's boat, we had been running through the Little Minch. At dawn after the battle we lay becalmed to the east of the Isle of Canna or between that and Isle Eriska, in the chain of Long Islands. Now to get from there to the Linne loch, the straight course was through the narrows of the Sound of Mull. But the captain had no char-

He was afraid to trust his brig so deep among the islands, and the wind serving well, he preferred to go by west of Three and come up under the southern coast of the great Isle of Skye.

All day the breeze held in the same point and rather freshened than died down, and toward afternoon a swell began to set in from around the outer Hebrides. Our course to go round the lunar Isles was to the west of south, so that at first we had this swell upon our beam and were much rolled about. But after nightfall, when we had turned the end of Three and began to head more to the east the sea came right astern.

Meanwhile the early part of the day, before the swell came up, was very pleasant, sailing as we were in a bright sunshine and with many mountainous islands upon different sides. Alan and I sat in the roundhouse with the doors open on each side (the wind being straight astern) and smoked a pipe or two of the captain's fine tobacco. It was at this time we heard each other's stories, which was the more important to me as I gained some knowledge of that wild highland country on which I was soon to land. In those days, so close on the back of the great rebellion, it was needful a man should know what he was doing when he went upon the heather.

It was I that showed the example telling him all my misfortune, which he heard with great good nature. Only when I came to mention that good friend of mine, Mr. Campbell, the minister, Alan fired up and cried out that he hated all that were of that name.

"Why," said I, "he is a man you should be proud to give your hand to."

"I know nothing I would help a Campbell to," says he, "unless it was a leaden bullet. I would hunt all of that name-like blackcocks. If I lay dying, I would crawl upon my knees to buy chamber window for a shot at one."

"Why, Alan," I cried, "what ails ye at the Campbells?"

"Well," says he, "ye ken very well that I am an Appin Stewart, and the Campbells have long harried and wasted those of my name; aye, and got lands of us by treachery, but never with the sword," he cried loudly, and with the word brought down his fist upon the table. But I paid the less attention to this, for I knew it was usually said by those who have the underhand. "There's more than a cat," he continued, "and all in the same story; lying words, lying papers, trick-lit for a peddler, and the show of what's legal over all to make a man the more angry."

"You that are so wasteful of your buttons," said I, "can hardly think you would be a good judge of business."

"Ah!" says he, falling again to smiling. "I got my wastefulness from the same man I got the buttons from, and that was my poor father, Duncan Stewart, grace be to him! He was the best sword-man of his kindred, and the best sword-man in the highlands, David, and that is the same as to say in all the world, I should ken, for it was him that taught me. He was in the Black Watch when first it was mustered, and like other gentlemen privates had a gillie at his back to carry his firelock for him on the march. And that was the father that I had, God rest him."

"I think he was not the man to leave you rich," said I.

"And that's true," said Alan. "He left me my breeks to cover me and little besides. And that was how I came to enlist, which was a black spot upon my character at the best of times, and would still be a sore job for me if I fell among the redcoats."

"What?" cried I, "were you in the English army?"

"That was I," said Alan. "But I deserted to the right side at Prestounpans, and that's some comfort."

I could scarcely share this view, holding desertion under arms for an unpardonable fault in honor. But for all I was so young I was wiser than say my thought. "Dear, dear," says I, "the punishment is death."

"Aye," said he, "if they got hands on me it would be a short shift and a lang tow for Alan! But I have the king of France's commission in my pocket, which would aye be some protection."

"I misdoubt it much," said I.

"I have doubts myself," said Alan dryly.

"And, good heaven, man," cried I,
"you that are a condemned rebel, and a deserter, and a man of the French king's—what tempts ye back into this country?
It's a branding of Providence."

"Tut," says Alan, "I have been back every year since forty-six!"

"And what brings ye, man?" cried I.

"Well, ye see, I weary for my friends and country," said he. "France is a braw place, nae doubt, but I weary for the heather and the deer. And then I have bit things that I attend to. Whiles I pick up a few lads to serve the king of France; recruits, ye see, and that's aye a little money. But the heart's the matter is the business of my chief, Ard-shiel."

"I thought they called your chief Ap-pin," said I.

Smoke Helms Worked Well.
Proof was given at a fire in Liverpool recently of the value of the newly invented smoke helmets. The volumes of smoke were so dense that the firemen were beaten back, but, donning the smoke helmets, into which air is pumped as in a diving equipment, they descended into the smoke, bearing the hose in one hand and electric lances in the other, and soon succeeded in putting out the flames.

The Human Lottery

"Ah, if only I were beautiful how happy life would be."

Many a forlorn maid has said this as she looked into the mirror. For beauty women have sacrificed home, love and friends, it is the one possession in the lottery of human life which women would not refuse.

J. BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

For young girls on the threshold of womanhood, has been invaluable. When they become pale and languid, the eyes dull, aching head, feel and hands cold, appetite poor or abnormal, obstructed periods and painful menses, and their systems generally run down, they need building up, and their blood needs cleansing.
Bradfield's Female Regulator for women is particularly valuable and useful owing to its tonic properties to build up the system, and a regular and efficient purgative Bowel, Pa. (do not construct and suppress menstruation permanently relieved and all the system regular to her genital organs are cured by it.)
Regulator clears the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, removes mildly and blooded conditions of the skin and cures sick headaches to a certainty by removing the cause.
